Hope in the Season of Easter

Last Sunday I woke having had a remarkable and vivid dream. I dreamt about a group of superheroes. I can't remember each of their superpowers but there was about five or six of them. However, then I dreamt of group of super villains whose powers exceeded and eclipsed those of the superheroes. One villain was like a metal robot who could stretch and change their metallic shape so they could out pace any superhero and was invulnerable to any attacks.

The group of superheroes was understandably beginning to feel a sense of defeat. Nothing they could do could overcome the villains. Then a new superhero came into the scene. She sought to join the group. However, she seemed to have no powers that they could discern. They began to reject her, suggesting that she had nothing to offer. Yet, she was persistent, noting that they had not been able to be successful in any way as it was.

As she spoke with the heroes, she described her power, and it turned out to be hope – unquenchable, indefatigable, and organisational hope. She was able to offer hope in the face of a seemingly hopeless situation, and it was not a naive or false hope, but a hope founded in an ability to organise the others to harness their gifts to join together in unity of purpose and as a team. Where they were not able to be triumphant through their own efforts, she was able to harness their gifts, strengths, talents and abilities in a coordinated way to take down and defeat each of the villains one by one.

This was quite a striking dream, and it was full of meaningful insight. Having just attended the arena spectacular performance of Les Misérables, a story which is full of hopelessness with only a spark of hope, maybe this dream was my brain processing that experience. Whether or not that was the case, the dream had a feeling of truth and reality. It spoke of the power of hope in the face of seeming hopelessness. This spoke to me of Easter and the work of God to keep the Kingdom of Heaven at hand.

Whether it was the disciples in the time after the death and resurrection of Christ, the Church through the ages, or is as the Church today, we seem to always be facing the reality that no matter how hard God seems to be working and no matter what efforts we add to that, the Kingdom of Heaven seems to be constantly and consistently thwarted or eroded by the actions of humankind. This could be a source of depressing hopelessness in the face of seeming futility. Yet, the purpose, patience and persistence of God is not thwarted and cannot be stopped by our actions as people. The Kingdom is at hand, has been since the time of Jesus and will come on Earth as it is in Heaven. There is no futility in any efforts we make, because it is all about relationship and the affirmation that we are all special and our purpose is to love and care for all. Each act of love, each expression of love, each sharing of love is a special embodiment and bring of the Kingdom for those involved. The Kingdom comes in each moment of kindness and act of loving sacrifice. Each instance is full of meaning and purpose and a continuance of the hope of God and the reality of God's working for good in all things.

As a Church as we continue to consider our missional identity and what God might be calling us to in missional ministry next, it is good to remember to hope.

Hope is part of that trio of power spoken about by Paul in 1 Corinthians 13: 13: Faith, hope and love. Of course, the greatest of these is love, but faith leads to hope and hope and faith are founded on love because God is love. So, how will we harness our gifts and talents, strengths and abilities, which we each individually have in order to find new ways of missional ministry to bring hope into the world and make a difference to those whom we can? This is something very much to think about.

*God bless
Jon*

Christian Meditation Monday night @ 7.30pm and Tuesday morning @ 9am

During May at all Christian Meditation sessions at St. Matthew's there will be a 15 minute session of teachings preceding the time of Meditation named;

Christian Life in the Light of Christian Meditation

1: Discipleship By Laurence Freeman OSB

Fr Laurence defines discipleship as being on the way to becoming one with Christ, and presents meditation as a way to discipleship. In the practice of Christian meditation we take our attention off ourselves and turn wholeheartedly to Christ dwelling in our hearts—we leave self behind. This shift from habitual self-fixation allows us to experience Jesus' gaze turned towards us. In the mutual recognition, a personal relationship develops that transforms us gradually to be more Christ-like.

From the book Silence & Stillness in Every Season Daily readings with John Main

The fullness of the life that Christ offers each of us is eternal life — life without limit. The mystery is that fullness of life is offered to us now. All of us have to learn as we live our lives that there must be a constant development. The invitation we have is to grow, to develop, to mature. One of the elements of that maturity is our growing capacity to enter the present moment more and more fully,, more and more perfectly, more and more generously. That is why it is so important that we continue to meditate every day, faithfully, every morning and every evening.

Each time we meditate and each time we say our mantra we are entering into that process of development, deepening our capacity to be wholly in the now. The invitation that we have is to build our lives on the eternal rock that is Christ. It is so easy for us for our lives to pass before our eyes in some sort of haphazard kaleidoscope. It is so easy for us to live our lives being tossed around by waves or mere fortune, never knowing where we will be landing up next or how long we will be there.

The challenge for all of us is to find the rock who is Christ, to find him in our hearts and then to respond to our lives, rooted in the knowledge that is love.

Door to Silence
